

A Real Mississippi Man

A real Mississippi Man doesn't have to fake and front, he tells you what he feels and he feels what he tells you. He proves his manhood from his shoulders up, not his waist down. He doesn't talk much but when he does he has something to say.

His gentleman is upfront, but his thug is on standby. He takes care of the whole house, not just the bedroom. He listens, loves and learns. He is a leader and a follower. But most of all he loves and fears the Lord.

God Why?

When you find yourself caught up in trials, tribulations, strains, sorrows, setbacks, pain and suffering, there is nothing wrong with asking God "Why me?" but the wrongness comes in when you start to think that he owes you an answer. So rather than say, "God why me?" we should say, "God use me" because there is a brighter day behind every storm.

We are always saying, "God said this, and God said that," People when you listen to the Lord, tell your mind to hush, tell your heart to be quite, tell your flesh to stand still. You ask him a question, but you already have an answer. You ask him to fix it, but you're already working on it. You ask for direction, but you've already drawn your own map. He is God all by himself and he doesn't need any help from anyone else. Be blessed.

Fake Stuff

People are tired of fake stuff! Tired of being in relationships where there is only one lover! Tired of preachers preaching about sensation and no salvation! Tired of Mack-daddy ministers trying to lay hands in private places! Tired of being in the midst of people that will say, "God loves you," on Sunday and "God..." something else on Monday.

*It's time for something real! The word of God is the realest thing I know.
TRY IT!*
